Indonesia, Singapore Banks, Vanke, Woodside

- Indonesia – Posted 3Q GDP growth of 5.0% oya
- Singapore Banks – DBS and UOB results
- Vanke – S&P downgrade to CCC with negative outlook
- Woodside – Capital Markets Day takeaways

Indonesia – Posted 3Q GDP growth of 5.0% oya

Indonesia posted GDP growth of 5.0% oya in 3Q, in line with consensus estimates and ahead of our JPM economists' forecast of 4.8% oya. However, according to our economists, the stable headline numbers conceal some cyclical weaknesses. Net exports contributed meaningfully to this year's growth but were led by lower imports, consistent with a decline in private investment in both the infrastructure and equipment categories. Inventories also posted a drag to growth due to destocking activities. On the other hand, private consumption held up thanks to increased fiscal support.

Indonesia has rolled out a series of fiscal and monetary measures to lift growth in recent months, including ad-hoc fiscal stimulus packages, cash injections into state banks and policy rate cuts. This should help provide a floor to near-term GDP growth, though the efficacy of these measures remains to be seen. Our economists have upgraded their 4Q25 GDP forecast to 4.9% q/q, saar from 4.0% q/q, saar, taking their full-year GDP growth forecast to 5.0% (see here). On the credit front, we will keep an eye on the government's fiscal deficit trajectory, which is budgeted at 2.68% for 2026. (Aman)

Singapore Banks – DBS and UOB results

The key takeaway from the two Singapore banks reporting earnings this morning was the pre-emptive provision expense taken by UOB (bond ticker: UOBSP), as impairments jumped to S$1.4 billion from S$279 million in 2Q. This helped lift NPA coverage over 100%, boosting balance sheet resilience; meanwhile, DBS (DBSSP) enjoyed a beat vs. market expectations with a solid ROE of 17%. Overall, we see little to sway our expectations for fundamentals to continue to support very strong credit profiles. We reiterate an Overweight recommendation on UOB's 3.863% subordinated bond, which is offered at a yield to the October 2027 call of 4.3% (z+90bp, SOT2+72bp, $99.1). We take this opportunity to downgrade DBS and its 1.822% subordinated bond to Neutral from Overweight, with it being offered at $99.1. We expect the bond to be redeemed on the optional call date, which is only four months away, in March. We expect this to limit outperformance and so we move to a balanced view. Downside risks for Singapore bank Tier 2 include a deterioration in asset quality; meanwhile, a scarcity of bonds could pose an upside risk.

For key risks and catalysts not already described in this report, please refer to the most recent Emerging Markets Corporate Coverage Report.

Return on equity (ROE) for the third quarter was stable at 17.1% for DBS, while UOB's ROE moderated to 3.5% for the quarter, down from 11.0% in the prior quarter and 14.0% a year ago, reflecting a one-off pre-emptive general allowance charge of S$615 million set aside to strengthen provision coverage and improve resilience against headwinds. Management expects credit costs to normalize going forward. The net interest margin (NIM) at both banks declined 9bp q/q, with DBS's compressing 1.96%, while UOB's NIM narrowed to 1.82%, although loan growth of 5% helped ease pressure on lending revenue at both institutions. Fee income trends diverged, with DBS posting a 22% y/y increase in net fee income led by wealth management and loan-related fees, while UOB's fee income was flat y/y for the quarter, though up 8% q/q, supported by broad-based growth across wealth, cards, and loan-related activities. Asset quality remained resilient for both banks, with DBS's NPL ratio stable at 1.0%, while UOB's NPL ratio was unchanged q/q at 1.6%. Increased provisioning helped lift NPA coverage at UOB to 100% from 88% in June. Capital ratios remained strong, with DBS reporting a common equity tier 1 (CET1) ratio of 16.9%, down 0.1 percentage point q/q, and UOB's CET1 ratio at 14.6%, down 0.7 percentage point q/q, both comfortably above regulatory requirements. Liquidity positions were robust, with DBS's liquidity coverage ratio at 149% and UOB's at 143%. (Matt)

Vanke – S&P downgrade to CCC with negative outlook

S&P downgraded China Vanke's rating from B- to CCC with a negative outlook yesterday. The rating agency believes Vanke's financial commitments are unsustainable as property sales and liquidity deteriorate, and it believes Vanke needs to rely on continuing loans from Shenzhen Metro (SZM) and cash from asset disposal to meet its debt obligations. We believe the downgrade is largely backward-looking as the liquidity deterioration has been well-known to the market, and we don't expect the downgrade to bring a meaningful impact to VNKRL's bond price, as it is already trading at distressed levels.

Signals on Vanke's liquidity outlook are mixed recently. On the negative side, the SZM/Vanke Rmb22bn loan cap announced last weekend implies that SZM may only provide an additional Rmb2.3bn of loans to Vanke for bond repayment. Octus has also reported that the Guangdong provincial government has rejected Vanke's consolidation into SZM (despite the Shenzhen city government's approval) to limit SZM's risk exposure. Nevertheless, on the positive side, Octus reported on Tuesday that the central government directed Shenzhen last month to maintain Vanke's stability. We also note that Vanke's onshore bonds have remained resilient with most lines trading at 94 to par, which is nowhere near distressed. We downgraded VNKRL '27s (bid/ask: 58/61) and '29s (50/53) to N this Monday, as we believe SZM's loan agreement implies limited incremental funding support, and it remains unclear how Vanke will deal with refinancing given reduced support from SZM. To be clear, we still don't believe that Vanke is a default candidate, but the absence of a possible consolidation into SZM (as earlier reported) has removed a major catalyst for this credit, which is another reason for our downgrade to Neutral as well. We will continue to monitor the situation, and wait for more updates from the government and the company. (Alvin)

Woodside – Capital Markets Day takeaways

Woodside Energy Group ("Woodside") hosted its 2025 Capital Markets Day and provided some details, including its long-term guidance extending into 2030s. In terms of production, Woodside aims to increase its exposure to gas within its portfolio and expects this exposure to more than double between 2024 and 2035, with operated LNG liquefaction capacity to grow from ~19 Mtpa in 2024 to 40 Mtpa in 2032. Overall sales volumes are expected to increase from 203.5 MMboe in 2024 to over 300 MMboe in 2032. Our equity research colleague believes the production of 300MMboe in FY2032 is in line with the indicative guidance (see report).

From a project perspective, in the medium term, the company expects the first LNG cargo from Scarborough (5Mtpa gas flows in Pluto Train 2) in 2H26 and expects an additional 2Mtpa in Pluto Train 1 in 1H27, following completion of its modifications. As of September 2025, the project is 91% complete. In the long term, the capacity of the first three trains of Louisiana LNG (LLNG) is 16.5 mtpa, targeting start-up in 2029. The company expects LLNG Trains 4 and 5 to be online by 2032. For the LLNG project, management is confident of the sale of an additional 20% stake in the HoldCo. Additionally, the company noted that 2027 will be a peak year for decommissioning, with the removal of Bass Strait platform planned. The average decommissioning cost for 2026-27 is expected to be ~$700mn per year.

Regarding the capex plan, after peaking in FY23-24, management expects capex to gradually step down by 2030. The company currently expects ongoing capex to be around $3bn per year from 2030 onwards, including $1.5bn of annual sustaining capex. Management highlighted that its current heavy capex is intended to prepare for its long-term target of delivering $9bn in net operating cash flow (vs. $5bn in 2024) by 2032 and ~50% increase in dividends from 2024 to 2032, primarily driven by LLNG (including Trains 4 and 5). Besides, Woodside's targeted gearing range is 10-20% through the cycle (19.5% in 1H25). We are OW on the WDSA curve as we find it to be trading cheap for its ratings vs. Asian and US peers. Please refer to our last company note for details and the key risks to our recommendations. (Love/Emma)

The table(s) above show the recommendation changes made by J.P. Morgan Credit Research Analysts in the subject company and/or instruments over the past three years (or, if no recommendation changes were made during that period, the most recent change). Notes: Effective April 11, 2016, J.P. Morgan changed its Credit Research Ratings System. Please see the Explanation of Credit Research Ratings below for the new definitions. The previous rating system no longer should be relied upon. For the history prior to April 11, 2016, please call 1-800-447-0406 or e-mail research.disclosure.inquiries@jpmorgan.com.

Explanation of Credit Research Valuation Methodology, Ratings and Risk to Ratings:

J.P. Morgan uses a bond-level rating system that incorporates valuations (relative value) and our fundamental view on the security. Our fundamental credit view of an issuer is based on the company's underlying credit trends, overall creditworthiness and our opinion on whether the issuer will be able to service its debt obligations when they become due and payable. We analyze, among other things, the company's cash flow capacity and trends and standard credit ratios, such as gross and net leverage, interest coverage and liquidity ratios. We also analyze profitability, capitalization and asset quality, among other variables, when assessing financials. Analysts also rate the issuer, based on the rating of the benchmark or representative security. Unless we specify a different recommendation for the company's individual securities, an issuer recommendation applies to all of the bonds at the same level of the issuer's capital structure. We may also rate certain loans and preferred securities, as applicable. This report also sets out within it the material underlying assumptions used. We use the following ratings for bonds (issues), issuers, loans, and preferred securities: Overweight (over the next three months, the recommended risk position is expected to outperform the relevant index, sector, or benchmark); Neutral (over the next three months, the recommended risk position is expected to perform in line with the relevant index, sector, or benchmark); and Underweight (over the next three months, the recommended risk position is expected to underperform the relevant index, sector, or benchmark). J.P. Morgan Emerging Markets Sovereign Research uses Marketweight, which is equivalent to Neutral. NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating for this particular security or issuer because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. NC is Not Covered. An NC designation is not a rating or a recommendation. For CDS, we use the following rating system: Long Risk (over the next three months, the credit return on the recommended position is expected to exceed the relevant index, sector or benchmark); Neutral (over the next three months, the credit return on the recommended position is expected to match the relevant index, sector or benchmark); and Short Risk (over the next three months, the credit return on the recommended position is expected to underperform the relevant index, sector or benchmark).

**Percentage of subject companies within each of the "Overweight," "Neutral" and "Underweight" categories for which J.P. Morgan has provided investment banking services within the previous 12 months.

For purposes of FINRA ratings distribution rules only, our Overweight rating falls into a buy rating category; our Neutral rating falls into a hold rating category; and our Underweight rating falls into a sell rating category. The Credit Research Rating Distribution is at the issuer level. Issuers with an NR or an NC designation are not included in the table above. This information is current as of the end of the most recent calendar quarter.
