

DBS Group Holdings

First Take: A solid beat and guidance raise, yet 3x book discounts a lot

Our First Take: DBS reported 2Q26 net income of S$3,079mn, up 9% y/y, 5% q/q and 9% above JPMe, with the beat led by non-II and provisions. NII grew 2% q/q, as loan growth (+3% q/q in constant currency) more than offset 2bps q/q NIM compression in the quarter. WM was solid, with WM fees up 1% q/q from a seasonally strong 1Q, driving 25% y/y fee growth in the quarter. NNM remained elevated at S$11bn in the quarter, in-line with the last 2 quarters' run-rate. Treasury was likewise robust, with strength across both customer flow and markets trading. Costs grew 3% y/y, broadly in-line with our estimate. The bank booked 10bps ann. credit costs, partly due to GP write-back, as SP was at 16bps. New NPAs remained low at S$155mn (~3bps of loans). DBS ended 2Q26 with fully phased-in CET1 at 14.6%, down 20bps q/q.

This is another solid quarter for DBS, with WM leading the strength, on top of q/q NII growth and steady asset quality. Following the beat, management has raised guidance on NII (closing the gap to 2025), commercial book non-II growth (mid-tens from high single digits) and total income (above 2025 from in-line). This should support stock price resilience. Yet, post US bank and HSBC/STAN results, a lot of these trends were almost expected, and we argue partially discounted. Further, at ~3x 2026E PB and 18.5x PER following a 26% rally in the last 3M (vs. STI +13%), upside should be limited, and the stock may be vulnerable to news regarding slowdown in WM, esp as China continues to tighten tax rules. Maintain Neutral.

Key Positives

WM strength sustained across NNM and fees, with AUM up 17% y/y to S$516bn. Loan growth was robust, led by non-trade and corporate.

Key Negatives/Question Marks

Some elements of the beat, such as markets trading, may not be sustainable.

Likely Changes to Consensus

We expect positive revisions from the Street post results.

Expected Stock Reaction

We expect near-term stock price resilience.

DBS Group Holdings (Neutral; Price Target: S$64.00)

Investment Thesis

We are Neutral on DBS.

- DBS has delivered one of the best RoE expansions in the last decade, as technology and process-led changes across the franchise have resulted in better growth, efficiency and returns. The bank's digital strength is driving gains in loan market share, WM and underwriting.
- The bank's commitment to and delivery of payouts in numerous forms (progressively increasing regular dividends, special dividends and buybacks) allows investors to pay a multiple for the income stream.
- The bank has restructured to lower its loan intensity (48% loans/assets in 2028E vs. 63% in 2017), with the WM business contributing an increasingly larger share. We expect S$40bn NNM in 2026. However, China's new policy on outbound direct investment could weigh on NNM growth, as < 30% of NNM is from Chinese nationals.
- The shifts in oil prices could lead to asset quality issues across the sector, yet NPA formation was low in 1Q, and credit costs were at the lower end of guidance. LLR/loans for the bank is at 127bps, with 85bps of loans as GP. Further, credit RWag and loan gr has averaged 2.1% and 1.7% in the last four years, respectively, suggesting a limited build-up of credit risk. We expect 18bps credit costs this year, with 24bps in FY27, given potential tail events.
- We expect 2026 EPS to mark a low for the next five years. Hence, the regular DPS of S$3.06 and part of the special can stay intact. We estimate that the bank could pay over $3.50 in DPS (2026E) for years to come.
- With the stock trading at a 2.6x 2026E P/B and a 5.5% dividend yield, re-rating could take a pause, in our view, especially as WM sees risks of slowing.

Valuation

Our Jun-27 PT of S$64 is based on a fair P/B of 2.41x, assuming a normalized RoE of 16.5%, a risk-free rate of 3.85%, a cost of capital of 9.4% and a growth rate of 4.3%.

Risks to Rating and Price Target

Upside risks include: (1) further increases in DPS; (2) stronger-than-expected deposit inflows; (3) sustained improvements in underwriting and monitoring, leading to lower-than-expected credit costs; (4) better-than-expected efficiency gains due to digital investments; and (5) a sharp increase in SORA, with limited movement in SOFR, which would be positive for NIM.

Downside risks include: (1) a slowdown in net new money inflows; (2) dividend disappointment; (3) asset quality deterioration, potentially from trade or oil-related exposures, as well as CRE; and (4) a faster and/or larger decline in SORA, which would drive larger-than-expected NIM compression. Any acquisition would come with two-sided risks.

The chart(s) show J.P. Morgan's continuing coverage of the stocks; the current analysts may or may not have covered it over the entire period. J.P. Morgan ratings or designations: OW = Overweight, N= Neutral, UW = Underweight, NR = Not Rated

Explanation of Equity Research Ratings, Designations and Analyst(s) Coverage Universe:

J.P. Morgan uses the following rating system: Overweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will outperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); Neutral (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will perform in line with the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); and Underweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe. NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. Some stocks under coverage have a rating but no price target; in these cases, we expect the stock will outperform/perform in line/underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe of the relevant duration of the region. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock's expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts' coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst's coverage universe can be found on J.P. Morgan's Research website, <https://www.jpmorganmarkets.com>.
