1Q26 Earnings Review: Wealth engine continues to power earnings delivery; Buy

OCBC posted 1Q26 net profit of S$1,974mn, up 5% yoy/13% qoq, above GSe (+5%) – see First Take: Beat as wealth-led earnings strength continues to underpin the story.

OCBC delivered a solid 1Q26 earnings beat, coming in +2% ahead of Visible Alpha Consensus Data (+5% vs GSe). The market reaction was measured but positive, with the stock outperforming on the day (+0.18%) versus the STI (-0.41%), reflecting continued investor conviction in the core wealth narrative highlighted again this quarter. Since the acceleration in wealth momentum from 3Q25, OCBC shares are up ~20%, compared with peers at ~6% ahead of their respective 1Q26 results. Heading into this print, there was clear anticipation around whether this momentum could hold—and this quarter delivered the reassurance the market was looking for. Management also noted that wealth momentum remained strong into April, reinforcing confidence that the trend is carrying into 2Q. With this backdrop, we see scope for the re-rating to continue, supported by execution rather than expectations alone. We continue to view OCBC's investment case as anchored on a strengthening wealth franchise, alongside balanced capital management and a prudent risk posture. Wealth was again the standout, with fee income up ~35% YoY, outperforming peers and reinforcing OCBC's positioning in capital-light, fee-driven growth—an increasingly important driver of bank valuations across the region. This is complemented by disciplined provisioning, where management has adopted a more conservative stance despite stable underlying asset quality, providing downside protection while retaining scope for potential write-backs should macro conditions stabilise. Management also provided additional clarity on the HSBC Indonesia IWPB acquisition, which we see as strategically aligned with OCBC's broader ASEAN wealth ambitions. The capital impact remains manageable (around ~20bps CET1), with potential upside over time as synergies are executed and cross-sell opportunities materialise. Investor feedback on the deal has been broadly constructive, with most focus centred on earnings contribution rather than strategic fit. Overall, the combination of sustained wealth momentum, measured capital deployment, and prudent risk management continues to underpin a favourable risk-reward profile. From here, investor focus is likely to remain squarely on execution and the durability of these trends.

With this in mind, we maintain our Buy rating. Post results, we revise our 2026–28 net income estimates by +2.2% / +0.8% / +1.0%, reflecting higher wealth fee growth and lower credit costs in 1Q26. Our two-stage DDM 12-month target price is revised up to S$25.3 from S$24.7.

Reiterating our Buy Thesis post result

- Wealth – momentum sustained and should continue. Wealth performance was a clear highlight this quarter, with OCBC delivering one of the strongest prints among the Singapore banks. Wealth management fee income grew 35% YoY, comfortably ahead of DBS (~25% YoY) and UOB (~3% YoY). Importantly, this momentum has been sustained since the initial step-up in 3Q25, which is encouraging for investors. Rather than fading, the results suggest that OCBC's One Bank strategy and the broader push and transformation in wealth are beginning to pay off. Net new money inflows remained healthy at around S$5bn for the quarter, with contributions across geographies. While AUM was broadly flat QoQ, this largely reflected mark-to-market effects from softer market valuations, rather than any weakness in underlying flows. Regionally, OCBC continues to perform well in Singapore, while Hong Kong is emerging as another important growth engine. Although from a smaller base, wealth income in Hong Kong grew by around 70% YoY, reflecting OCBC's ability to capture China-related wealth flows, particularly among UHNW and emerging affluent clients. Beyond wealth, insurance was another area of strength. Great Eastern delivered robust growth, with insurance income within OCBC's fee line up 34% YoY, alongside solid premium growth. This highlights that execution has been broad-based—not only within OCBC's core wealth franchise and BOS, but also at Great Eastern—strengthening the overall value proposition across the group. From a stock perspective, this has been an area investors have been watching closely. Since the acceleration in wealth momentum from 3Q25, OCBC shares are up +20%, compared with peers at 6% before their respective 1Q26 results, and heading into 1Q, there was clear anticipation around whether this momentum could hold. This quarter's results delivered the reassurance the market was looking for. Management also indicated that momentum remained strong into April, providing early visibility into 2Q. Wealth is increasingly the key growth engine across the regional banking sector, supported by rising affluence in Asia and ongoing liquidity flows. At OCBC, wealth now contributes roughly 63% of total fee income, underscoring its growing importance. Against this backdrop, we raise our FY26 fee income growth forecast to 11.3%. While this is still slightly below Visible Alpha Consensus Data, we are more constructive further out, with our FY27–28 forecasts 2–3% above consensus, reflecting our view that OCBC is well positioned to benefit from the structural growth in wealth across the region. With continued execution, we see scope for this momentum to remain a supportive driver of both earnings and valuation.

- Capital returns – expectations managed, but optionality remains. Capital remains a key focus for OCBC investors, with management reiterating its commitment to returning the unused S$800m previously set aside for share buybacks via special dividends, to be announced at FY26 results and paid in 1Q27. On a pro-forma basis, CET1 stands at around 14.2% post-FY26 dividend, moderating slightly to ~14.0% after factoring in the up-to 20bps impact from the HSBC IWPB acquisition—still broadly in line with management’s stated ~14% comfort level. Against this backdrop, some investors questioned whether there is scope to raise the current 50% dividend payout ratio (DPO). Management did not provide explicit guidance, emphasising instead that capital returns will depend on multiple factors, while CET1 is also expected to rebuild organically through earnings accretion. We think it is worth noting that the pro-forma capital figures do not capture in-quarter capital build, and historically OCBC generates roughly ~10bps of CET1 per quarter, suggesting that capital levels are unlikely to drift meaningfully toward the low end of the operating range. There is also incremental support from associates and subsidiaries such as BONB and GEH, where higher dividends translate directly into CET1 accretion at the group level, as retained earnings at these entities only benefit CET1 once upstreamed. We have seen over the last year that these two entities have increased their dividend payout ratios leading to a 33% increase in DPS for BONB for FY2025 and +22% rise in DPS for GEH. This provides additional headroom to support payouts over time, particularly as OCBC continues to tilt the business mix toward capital-light growth areas such as wealth.

For now, management remains non-committal and will revisit the topic in 2027. We remain conservative, assuming the DPO normalises back to 50% in 2027–28, in line with Visible Alpha Consensus Data (~51%). While investors would likely welcome more, expectations are generally measured, and few we spoke to are assuming the 60% payout is sustained. Any upside here would likely require clearer signalling from management and stronger confidence in capital build, making this a medium-term optionality rather than a near-term catalyst.

- Provisions – conservative stance taken, with potential upside if conditions settle. OCBC reported credit costs of 23bps this quarter, incorporating a management overlay for macro-economic variables (MEVs) amid ongoing global uncertainty, while remaining comfortably within FY26 guidance of 20–25bps. Management was clear that the overlay reflects a more cautious stance on evolving macro risks, particularly potential third-order effects, rather than any visible deterioration in the underlying portfolio. Direct exposure to the Middle East remains limited, at <3% of total loans and ~1% of total assets, and ongoing stress tests have not pointed to any meaningful credit slippage thus far. Notably, among the Singapore banks, OCBC appears to have taken the most conservative approach this quarter, adding more general provisions than peers despite already having solid loan-loss coverage. With total coverage now at a cycle-high of ~163%, we do not see a need for further material provision build from here. This level of conservatism arguably creates room for potential release should macro risks prove less disruptive than feared, something management acknowledged could be considered later in the year if conditions stabilise. From an earnings perspective, this sets up a more favourable risk-reward profile. While the overlay introduces near-term conservatism, it also provides a buffer against uncertainty and leaves scope for positive earnings surprise if releases materialise. We now forecast FY26 credit costs of ~22bps (prior: 23bps, and slightly below Visible Alpha Consensus Data of 23bps), with ~20bps assumed for each of the next three quarters, reflecting our view that underlying asset quality remains sound and that OCBC is unlikely to add meaningfully to provisions from current elevated coverage levels.

Other Key Highlights

- HSBC Indonesia IWPB acquisition. Management provided additional colour on the HSBC International Wealth and Premier Banking (IWPB) Indonesia acquisition announced on 4 May. The deal is expected to complete in 1H27, with a modest impact on capital, reducing CET1 by up to ~20bps, alongside one-off transaction costs of around ~2% of group net profit. Management indicated the acquisition should be EPS accretive after amortisation of the premium, though valuation details were understandably not disclosed given the transaction is still ongoing. OCBC noted the portfolio being acquired is relatively clean—largely deposits and AUM, with minimal loan exposure. The loan book is small (around S$300mn), predominantly credit cards, which would meaningfully lift OCBC Indonesia's card balances, while keeping incremental credit risk limited. The deposit base is heavily skewed to CASA and near-zero-cost funding, which, when migrated onto OCBC NISP's existing platform, should allow for funding cost optimisation and operating leverage benefits, given HSBC Indonesia's structurally higher cost base. That said, investor feedback so far has been fairly measured. There has been no major pushback, but most questions have centred on earnings contribution and execution, particularly given that this is capital that could otherwise have been returned. On the day of announcement, the stock reaction was muted, with OCBC trading broadly in line with peers (+0.4%), suggesting the deal was largely viewed as neutral near-term. Where upside could emerge is on execution and the delivery of synergies. Furthermore, customer overlap appears limited, and there is potential optionality from onshore-offshore wealth flows, particularly if OCBC can successfully cross-sell these Indonesian clients into its Singapore and Hong Kong wealth platforms. If synergies are delivered as planned, the acquisition could become more meaningfully accretive over time. We believe market focus will be on how quickly OCBC can translate this expanded footprint into tangible wealth traction across ASEAN post the completion of the deal. Overall, we view the transaction as a strategically sound step that reinforces OCBC's long-term commitment to its broader wealth ambitions in ASEAN. While the current macro backdrop—including IDR volatility and external uncertainties—may influence near-term sentiment, the structural rationale remains compelling in our view. The deal strengthens OCBC's positioning in a key growth market and provides a scalable platform to capture rising wealth penetration over time. Looking ahead, we expect investor focus to remain on the pace of execution, particularly in translating this enhanced footprint into tangible traction across its ASEAN and wealth franchises.
- NII / NIM – guidance maintained, likely a drag but manageable. Management maintained its FY26 NII guidance of a slight-to-moderate decline, based on updated rate assumptions of ~1.2% for 3M SORA, ~2.7% for 3M HIBOR, and one Fed cut in 4Q26. That said, investors remain focused on where outcomes land within that range, especially after 1Q26 NII declined ~5% YoY and came in -2% vs GSe and -3% vs Visible Alpha Consensus Data. Encouragingly, guidance was held despite lower rate assumptions, even if outcomes now skew toward the middle to lower end. With current rates so far stable, we see scope for NII to stabilise if rates remain broadly range-bound, though some lag effects from earlier rate cuts—particularly December’s—are still flowing through portfolio yields offset by balance sheet growth. On the quarter, management noted -9bps from lower loan yields, -4bps from deposit base expansion, and -2bps from one-off NPL recoveries, partly offset by +6bps from earnings on excess liquidity. Deposit growth of +4% QoQ provided important support, though management flagged that this momentum is likely to ease. While there were concerns heading into the print that NII could disappoint, the miss versus consensus was largely offset by strong non-NII, and investors were not overly penalising OCBC for this today. We forecast FY26 NII down ~3% YoY, with NIM at ~1.72%, below consensus expectations of ~+1% YoY growth, suggesting room for downward cons revisions. We trimmed our NII forecast by a further ~0.3% this quarter. Overall, we continue to see NII as a drag, but one that should be manageable and more than compensated by stronger non-NII momentum, which remains the key driver of the equity narrative.

GS Factor Profile

The Goldman Sachs Factor Profile provides investment context for a stock by comparing key attributes to the market (i.e. our universe of rated stocks) and its sector peers. The four key attributes depicted are: Growth, Financial Returns, Multiple (e.g. valuation) and Integrated (a composite of Growth, Financial Returns and Multiple). Growth, Financial Returns and Multiple are calculated by using normalized ranks for specific metrics for each stock. The normalized ranks for the metrics are then averaged and converted into percentiles for the relevant attribute. The precise calculation of each metric may vary depending on the fiscal year, industry and region, but the standard approach is as follows:

Growth is based on a stock's forward-looking sales growth, EBITDA growth and EPS growth (for financial stocks, only EPS and sales growth), with a higher percentile indicating a higher growth company. Financial Returns is based on a stock's forward-looking ROE, ROCE and CROCI (for financial stocks, only ROE), with a higher percentile indicating a company with higher financial returns. Multiple is based on a stock's forward-looking P/E, P/B, price/dividend (P/D), EV/EBITDA, EV/FCF and EV/Debt Adjusted Cash Flow (DACF) (for financial stocks, only P/E, P/B and P/D), with a higher percentile indicating a stock trading at a higher multiple. The Integrated percentile is calculated as the average of the Growth percentile, Financial Returns percentile and (100% - Multiple percentile).

Financial Returns and Multiple use the Goldman Sachs analyst forecasts at the fiscal year-end at least three quarters in the future. Growth uses inputs for the fiscal year at least seven quarters in the future compared with the year at least three quarters in the future (on a per-share basis for all metrics).

M&A Rank

Across our global coverage, we examine stocks using an M&A framework, considering both qualitative factors and quantitative factors (which may vary across sectors and regions) to incorporate the potential that certain companies could be acquired. We then assign a M&A rank as a means of scoring companies under our rated coverage from 1 to 3, with 1 representing high (30%-50%) probability of the company becoming an acquisition target, 2 representing medium (15%-30%) probability and 3 representing low (0%-15%) probability. For companies ranked 1 or 2, in line with our standard departmental guidelines we incorporate an M&A component into our target price. M&A rank of 3 is considered immaterial and therefore does not factor into our price target, and may or may not be discussed in research.

See company-specific disclosures as to any applicable disclosures required by Japanese stock exchanges, the Japanese Securities Dealers Association or the Japanese Securities Finance Company.

Ratings, coverage universe and related definitions

Buy (B), Neutral (N), Sell (S) Analysts recommend stocks as Buys or Sells for inclusion on various regional Investment Lists. Being assigned a Buy or Sell on an Investment List is determined by a stock’s total return potential relative to its coverage universe. Any stock not assigned as a Buy or a Sell on an Investment List with an active rating (i.e., a stock that is not Rating Suspended, Not Rated, Early-Stage Biotech, Coverage Suspended or Not Covered), is deemed Neutral. Each region manages Regional Conviction Lists, which are selected from Buy rated stocks on the respective region’s Investment Lists and represent investment recommendations focused on the size of the total return potential and/or the likelihood of the realization of the return across their respective areas of coverage. The addition or removal of stocks from such Conviction Lists are managed by the Investment Review Committee or other designated committee in each respective region and do not represent a change in the analysts’ investment rating for such stocks.

Total return potential represents the upside or downside differential between the current share price and the price target, including all paid or anticipated dividends, expected during the time horizon associated with the price target. Price targets are required for all covered stocks. The total return potential, price target and associated time horizon are stated in each report adding or reiterating an Investment List membership.

Coverage Universe: A list of all stocks in each coverage universe is available by primary analyst, stock and coverage universe at <https://www.gs.com/research/hedge.html>.

Not Rated (NR). The investment rating, target price and earnings estimates (where relevant) are removed pursuant to Goldman Sachs policy when Goldman Sachs is acting in an advisory capacity in a merger or in a strategic transaction involving this company, when there are legal, regulatory or policy constraints due to Goldman Sachs' involvement in a transaction, and in certain other circumstances. Early-Stage Biotech (ES). An investment rating and a target price are not assigned pursuant to Goldman Sachs policy when this company has neither a drug, treatment or medical device that has passed a Phase II clinical trial nor a license to distribute a post-Phase II drug, treatment or medical device. Rating Suspended (RS). Goldman Sachs Research has suspended the investment rating and price target for this stock, because there is not a sufficient fundamental basis for determining an investment rating or target price. The previous investment rating and target price, if any, are no longer in effect for this stock and should not be relied upon. Coverage Suspended (CS). Goldman Sachs has suspended coverage of this company. Not Covered (NC). Goldman Sachs does not cover this company.

General disclosures

This research is for our clients only. Other than disclosures relating to Goldman Sachs, this research is based on current public information that we consider reliable, but we do not represent it is accurate or complete, and it should not be relied on as such. The information, opinions, estimates and forecasts contained herein are as of the date hereof and are subject to change without prior notification. We seek to update our research as appropriate, but various regulations may prevent us from doing so. Other than certain industry reports published on a periodic basis, the large majority of reports are published at irregular intervals as appropriate in the analyst's judgment.

Goldman Sachs conducts a global full-service, integrated investment banking, investment management, and brokerage business. We have investment banking and other business relationships with a substantial percentage of the companies covered by Global Investment Research. Goldman Sachs & Co. LLC, the United States broker dealer, is a member of SIPC (<https://www.sipc.org>).

Our salespeople, traders, and other professionals may provide oral or written market commentary or trading strategies to our clients and principal trading desks that reflect opinions that are contrary to the opinions expressed in this research. Our asset management area, principal trading desks and investing businesses may make investment decisions that are inconsistent with the recommendations or views expressed in this research.

The analysts named in this report may have from time to time discussed with our clients, including Goldman Sachs salespersons and traders, or may discuss in this report, trading strategies that reference catalysts or events that may have a near-term impact on the market price of the equity securities discussed in this report, which impact may be directionally counter to the analyst's published price target expectations for such stocks. Any such trading strategies are distinct from and do not affect the analyst's fundamental equity rating for such stocks, which rating reflects a stock's return potential relative to its coverage universe as described herein.

We and our affiliates, officers, directors, and employees will from time to time have long or short positions in, act as principal in, and buy or sell, the securities or derivatives, if any, referred to in this research, unless otherwise prohibited by regulation or Goldman Sachs policy.

The views attributed to third party presenters at Goldman Sachs arranged conferences, including individuals from other parts of Goldman Sachs, do not necessarily reflect those of Global Investment Research and are not an official view of Goldman Sachs.

Any third party referenced herein, including any salespeople, traders and other professionals or members of their household, may have positions in the products mentioned that are inconsistent with the views expressed by analysts named in this report.

This research is not an offer to sell or the solicitation of an offer to buy any security in any jurisdiction where such an offer or solicitation would be illegal. It does not constitute a personal recommendation or take into account the particular investment objectives, financial situations, or needs of individual clients. Clients should consider whether any advice or recommendation in this research is suitable for their particular circumstances and, if appropriate, seek professional advice, including tax advice. The price and value of investments referred to in this research and the income from them may fluctuate. Past performance is not a guide to future performance, future returns are not guaranteed, and a loss of original capital may occur. Fluctuations in exchange rates could have adverse effects on the value or price of, or income derived from, certain investments.

Certain transactions, including those involving futures, options, and other derivatives, give rise to substantial risk and are not suitable for all investors. Investors should review current options and futures disclosure documents which are available from Goldman Sachs sales representatives or at <https://www.theocc.com/about/publications/character-risks.jsp> and https://www.goldmansachs.com/disclosures/cftc\_fcm\_disclosures. Transaction costs may be significant in option strategies calling for multiple purchase and sales of options such as spreads. Supporting documentation will be supplied upon request.

Differing Levels of Service provided by Global Investment Research: The level and types of services provided to you by Goldman Sachs Global Investment Research may vary as compared to that provided to internal and other external clients of GS, depending on various factors including your individual preferences as to the frequency and manner of receiving communication, your risk profile and investment focus and perspective (e.g., marketwide, sector specific, long term, short term), the size and scope of your overall client relationship with GS, and legal and regulatory constraints. As an example, certain clients may request to receive notifications when research on specific securities is published, and certain clients may request that specific data underlying analysts' fundamental analysis available on our internal client websites be delivered to them electronically through data feeds or otherwise. No change to an analyst's fundamental research views (e.g., ratings, price targets, or material changes to earnings estimates for equity securities), will be communicated to any client prior to inclusion of such information in a research report broadly disseminated through electronic publication to our internal client websites or through other means, as necessary, to all clients who are entitled to receive such reports.

All research reports are disseminated and available to all clients simultaneously through electronic publication to our internal client websites. Not all research content is redistributed to our clients or available to third-party aggregators, nor is Goldman Sachs responsible for the redistribution of our research by third party aggregators. For research, models or other data related to one or more securities, markets or asset classes (including related services) that may be available to you, please contact your GS representative or go to <https://research.gs.com>.
