Fundamentals still good, uncertainty higher

Reiterate Rating: NEUTRAL | PO: 2,000 GBp | Price: 1,640 GBp

All eyes now on May

Standard Chartered produced a mixed set of Q4 numbers, with misses in cost and Markets. However, fundamentals remain intact – in particular its exposure to fast-growing areas in Asia Wealth and CIB. Management has committed to providing medium-term financial targets in May – we expect mid-teens ROTE guidance for the medium term, amongst others. We estimate 14-15% ROTE in 2027-2028. We increase our PBT estimate for 2026, reflecting higher income, in line with management guidance; our 2027 and 2028 estimates are broadly unchanged as higher revenue partially offset by higher costs (see details inside). Shares are not expensive, trading at c.1.2x P/TBV26e, especially with further ROTE growth expected. However, with geopolitical risks elevated, we reiterate our Neutral rating and PO of 2,000p/US$53.60.

Fee income growth continues to be key

For 2026, management guided to broadly flat NII, but it expects total income to grow at the bottom end of the 5-7% range, which implies fee income growth in the double digits (and higher excluding the Solv India disposal gain in 2025). Wealth will likely continue to play an important role (2025 growth of 24%), and we expect the flows to remain strong, but with Wealth only c.30-40% of total fee income, growth in CIB fee income is also necessary. Current market volatility from the conflict in the Middle East is likely to present Standard Chartered with episodic income opportunities in the near term as clients seek to hedge risks; however, the longer-term impact on global trade and growth is less certain.

Cost: Moving restructuring above the line a positive

Management has also moved the reporting basis of prep to statutory – and most notably including below-the-line restructuring costs above the line. With below the line at $900m in 2025 and 2026e (c.7% of underlying costs), we think the commitment to manage costs on a statutory basis is a key positive.

Company Sector

Banks-Multinational/Universal

Company Description

Standard Chartered is headquartered in London, but its major operations are in Asia and Africa, with a diverse footprint within these continents. Standard Chartered has three main divisions, including Wealth and Retail Banking, Corporate and Institutional Banking, and Ventures. The shares are listed in both London and Hong Kong in a dual primary listing.

Investment Rationale

We rate Standard Chartered Neutral. We expect Wealth growth to remain strong, and management has been successful in terms of creating differentiated products that are highly valued by their target customers. There is potential downside on NII in a falling US rate environment. We also see downside risk to cost, particularly below the line. Shares are not expensive, but also not obviously cheap versus the sector.

Wealth – remains strong

Wealth solution income grew 20% YoY in 4Q25 or 24% YoY in FY25, driven by broad-based growth in Investment Products & Bancassurance. Net new money (NNM) was $10bn in 4Q25, which contributed to a cumulative total of $52bn NNM in FY25, equivalent to 14% growth of AUM.

In terms of new client acquisition, Standard Chartered onboarded 275k new-to-bank affluent clients in FY25 and up-tiered over 300k individual clients across the continuum in the year. Management guided wealth showed an encouraging start to 2026, with broad-based growth and migration from deposit products into wealth.

Questions remain regarding whether clients' appetite to invest would be as high if the Middle East conflict continues for longer than expected – thus potentially impacting wealth fee income growth. However, much of the total revenue impact will likely depend on Standard Chartered's ability to attract low-cost deposits. In a number of markets in which it operates, it is seen as a relative "safe haven" bank and could see deposit inflows. If deposit growth remains strong, there could be benefits to NII even if clients are less inclined to convert deposits into wealth products.

There may also be further inflows into Hong Kong, which has seen deposits growing by 7-11% year on year at the sector level. Hong Kong's Finance Secretary has remarked in recent days that there may be capital inflows into Hong Kong for investors seeking "safe haven," although it is too early to see the trends in published numbers.

We note that Standard Chartered has managed to grow deposits by 12% in 2025, one of the highest growth rates seen among European banks.

CIB – Markets CAGR key question

CIB's Global Banking and Global Markets are the other two key contributors to Standard Chartered's fee income line. Both did very well in 2025 – with revenues up 15% and 12%, respectively. The key question is the extent to which this type of growth can continue, particularly if global liquidity conditions tighten in the event of a prolonged Middle East conflict. Management's presentation of 'flow' income in Markets suggests that it has grown by high single digits/ low double digits in the last 5 years. Episodic income ebbs and flows but tends to be higher during periods of high volatility.

While the numbers speak for themselves, we also note that other European and US investment banks have also seen a similar level of growth CAGR in the last five years given supportive liquidity conditions globally. Standard Chartered's Global Markets revenue CAGR between 2019 and 2025 was 9%, which was almost exactly the same as that of Barclays and JP Morgan in the same period.

In the near term, we expect volatility to be a positive to episodic income, as clients' need to hedge risks increases. As a reminder, Q1 and Q2 of 2025 recorded strong episodic income given 'Liberation Day' tariffs.

The longer-term impact of the market dislocation is much more uncertain and will likely depend on the duration/settlement of the conflict in the Middle East.

Standard Chartered’s cross-border network income was $7.3bn in 2024 (c. a third of total income). Although only 7 individual market corridors each generate network income of >$100m per annum, the business model is geared to international trade and growth – although one could make the argument that a more fragmented world creates more complicated trade patterns, which could benefit Standard Chartered. The overall impact is uncertain at this point.

Credit quality – Shocks manageable

European banks have been very resilient in terms of credit quality in the past ten years, despite cost-of-living issues, Covid, etc. Standard Chartered's performance was no exception to that.

However, given its exposure to the Middle East, which is one of the highest amongst European banks, credit quality is something that we need to watch.

In terms of geographical exposure, Standard Chartered has operations in Bahrain, Iraq, Oman, Qatar, Saudi Arabia and UAE. UAE is by far the largest.

In terms of downside scenarios, management considered ECL losses under a roll-forward of the 2025 Bank Capital Stress Test scenario, which is characterised by “a synchronised and severe downturn across all key markets, global supply side disruptions (including tariffs) and a high commodity price, inflation and interest rate environment”. Under this scenario, modelled impairment impact would be c.$500m, which is more than manageable for the bank. However, much will depend on the duration of the Middle East conflict and the exact way the stress plays out.

PBT: We increase our 2026 PBT estimate by 8% for 2026, reflecting higher income, in line with management guidance. For 2027e and 2028e, higher revenue estimates are partially offset by higher costs.

Revenue: Management guided to total revenue growth of “around the bottom end of 5-7% range” in 2026. With NII expected to be broadly flat, we think this is a reasonable estimate, which includes continued strong growth in Wealth and Markets income growth in line with CAGR in the past 6 years.

Costs: Below-the-line costs will now be reported above the line. Management has been clear that the “Fit for Growth” programme will finish by the end of 2026, which could in theory result in absolute cost falling. We do not expect that in our base case given the growth trajectory – on our forecasts, total reported cost grows by c.2% in 2027e.

Distribution: We reduce our buyback estimates for 2026 slightly, as we expect more to be returned via dividends. As a reminder, the final dividend for H225 was 40% ahead of consensus, and total dividend for the year represents a payout ratio of c.30%, up from mid-20s in the past.

Price objective basis & risk

Standard Chartered (SCBFF / SCBFY)

Our primary valuation methodology is a Gordon Growth Model based on our 2027e forecast, to which we add the present value of expected dividends. With a 11% cost of equity assumption, this suggests a price to book multiple of 1.5x, reducing to 1.3x when discounted to a year from now at our cost of equity. Applying this to 2026E tangible book value of 1,854c gives a value of 2,456c pre capital return. To this we add the dividends we forecast through to 2027E (also discounted) and adjust for excess capital to the bottom end of management guidance. Using this valuation approach, we arrive at a price objective of 2,000p (53.60 USD).

The upside risks to our PO are 1. US rates stay higher for longer, terminal rate higher than expected, 2. further stimulus from the Chinese government, 3. Emerging Asia/ Hong Kong loan growth recovers faster than expected.

The downside risks to our PO are 1. Loan growth remains subdued for longer, 2. Wealth Management flows slow as competition intensifies in the market, 3. Global trade flows reduce more than expected with higher tariffs.

Equity Investment Rating Distribution: Global Group (as of 31 Dec 2025)

Coverage Universe	Count	Percent	Inv. Banking Relationships ^{R1}	Count	Percent
Buy	1869	53.99%	Buy	1069	57.20%
Hold	834	24.09%	Hold	481	57.67%
Sell	759	21.92%	Sell	383	50.46%

^{R1} Issuers that were investment banking clients of BofA Securities or one of its affiliates within the past 12 months. For purposes of this Investment Rating Distribution, the coverage universe includes only stocks. A stock rated Neutral is included as a Hold, and a stock rated Underperform is included as a Sell.

FUNDAMENTAL EQUITY OPINION KEY: Opinions include a Volatility Risk Rating, an Investment Rating and an Income Rating. VOLATILITY RISK RATINGS, indicators of potential price fluctuation, are: A - Low, B - Medium and C - High. INVESTMENT RATINGS reflect the analyst's assessment of both a stock's absolute total return potential as well as its attractiveness for investment relative to other stocks within its Coverage Cluster (defined below). Our investment ratings are: 1 - Buy stocks are expected to have a total return of at least 10% and are the most attractive stocks in the coverage cluster; 2 - Neutral stocks are expected to remain flat or increase in value and are less attractive than Buy rated stocks and 3 - Underperform stocks are the least attractive stocks in a coverage cluster. An investment rating of 6 (No Rating) indicates that a stock is no longer trading on the basis of fundamentals. Analysts assign investment ratings considering, among other things, the 0-12 month total return expectation for a stock and the firm's guidelines for ratings dispersions (shown in the table below). The current price objective for a stock should be referenced to better understand the total return expectation at any given time. The price objective reflects the analyst's view of the potential price appreciation (depreciation).

Investment rating	Total return expectation (within 12-month period of date of initial rating)	Ratings dispersion guidelines for coverage cluster ^{R2}
Buy	≥ 10%	≤ 70%
Neutral	≥ 0%	≤ 30%
Underperform	N/A	≥ 20%

^{R2}Ratings dispersions may vary from time to time where BofA Global Research believes it better reflects the investment prospects of stocks in a Coverage Cluster.

INCOME RATINGS, indicators of potential cash dividends, are: 7 - same/higher (dividend considered to be secure), 8 - same/lower (dividend not considered to be secure) and 9 - pays no cash dividend. Coverage Cluster is comprised of stocks covered by a single analyst or two or more analysts sharing a common industry, sector, region or other classification(s). A stock's coverage cluster is included in the most recent BofA Global Research report referencing the stock.
